LIST OF WOMEN'S PERIODICALS IN ASIA AND THE PACIFIC 1

COUNTRY/AREA/ORGANIZATION INDEX 25

INTRODUCTION

One of the recommendations in the Platform for Action adopted at the Fourth World Conference on Women in Beijing, 1995, is to encourage and recognize women's media networks, including electronic networks and other new technologies of communication, as a means for the dissemination of information and the exchange of views, including at the international level, and support women's groups active in all media work and systems of communications to that end. The overall implementation of the Beijing Platform for Action will depend heavily on the availability of information and the capacity of the main actors to communicate and reach out to different groups at all levels world-wide.

Whether the distribution of periodical is national, regional or international, periodical information dissemination in the forms of newsletters and journals is one of the basic and most effective means of communication. There are many women's organizations today which are actively collecting and disseminating information through their periodical publications. ESCAP has been conducting a series of activities to establish and strengthen the Women's Information Network for Asia and the Pacific (WINAP) since 1986. Along with assisting country efforts in building up their national women's information mechanisms, its major activities is to issue WINAP Newsletter for regular information exchange.

The Directory of Women's Periodicals in Asia and the Pacific is one of the various activities of WINAP aiming to promote information exchange among the region. This is the updated version of the original publication issued in 1989. Where subscriptions to a wide range of publications are difficult due to financial limitations, publication exchange with other national, regional and international organizations may help in obtaining a wide range of information as well as expanding the organization's network.

This directory only covers periodicals which are published in English in the Asian and Pacific region. The list contains 217 titles of periodicals published by various organizations in 21 countries. While data in the last issue was gathered through questionnaires to the WINAP national focal points, this time ESCAP has requested the cooperation of the Center for Women's Development Studies in India and ISIS International in the Philippines to provide periodicals data from their extensive network. While the efforts of issuing journals to encourage women's media networks are commendable, the Directory should not be seen as a list of recommended periodicals.

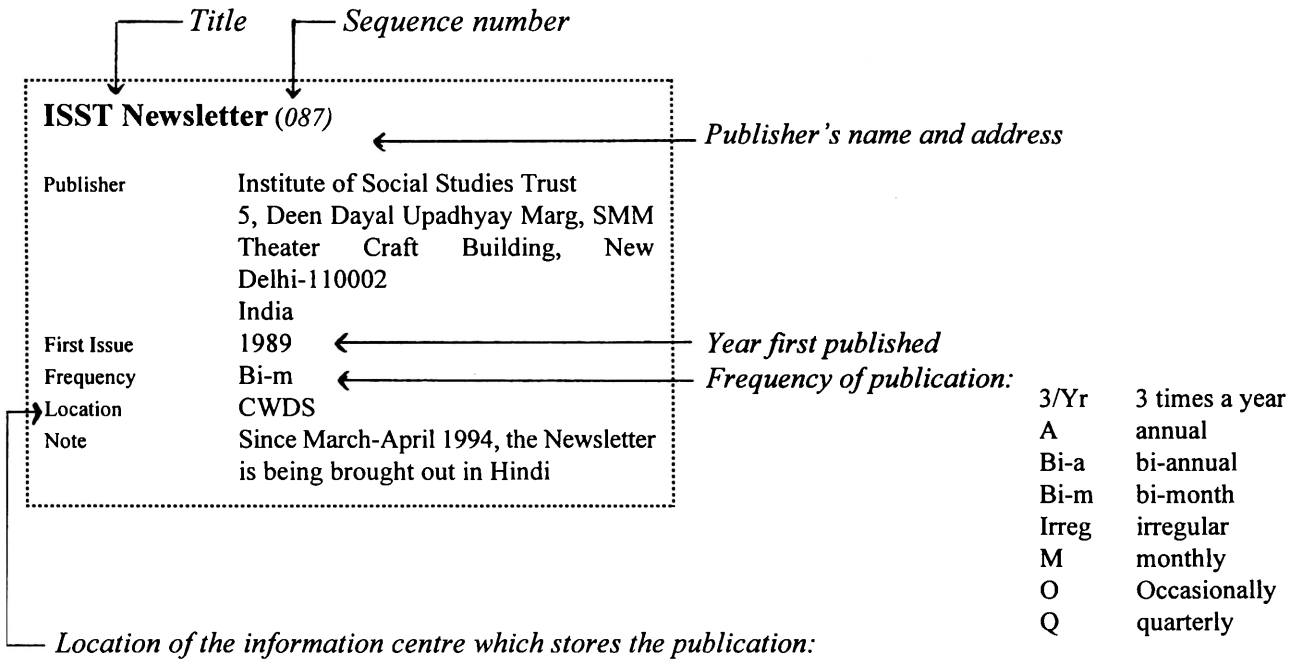

Any comments and additional information would be appreciated and can be sent to the following address:
