INTRODUCTORY NOTE

Asian Bibliography, prepared by the ESCAP Library, is a semi-annual, computer-produced list of monographs, annual publications and selected articles relating to socio-economic development in Asia and the Pacific.

The list consists of four parts:

Part I: List of citations grouped under broad subject categories reflecting the programmes and activities of ESCAP. Within each subject category, entries are arranged in alphabetical order, with bibliographic descriptions that include multiple bibliographic descriptors, and the call number by which the citations are shelved in the ESCAP Library. Each entry is preceded by a sequential entry number.

Parts II, III and IV: Three indexes, Author index, Title index and ESCAP Area index respectively, provide multiple access to the information contained in the List of citations, including the sequential entry number that enables the user to refer to the full bibliographic description given in that main list.

Each publication relating to the Asian and Pacific region, irrespective of the date of its issuance, is included in Asian Bibliography when acquired for the first time by the ESCAP Library. The bibliography might therefore include old as well as the most recent titles on Asia and the Pacific. Consequently, the six-month periods covered by Asian Bibliography (January-June; July-December) denote the periods of acquisition by the Library, and bear no relation to dates of publication, which dates are included in the bibliographic information given in each entry listed.

Readers who need further detailed information are encouraged to refer to the on-line services of the ESCAP Bibliographic Information System, the data base of which includes this bibliography and other United Nations and ESCAP documentary information. Readers may write to:
