Preface

The sexual exploitation of children and youth (SEC), including trafficking, is a global problem. In the Asian and Pacific region, it is estimated that there are over 1 million child victims of sexual exploitation. In addition to thriving cross-border trafficking networks which lure or force children as young as 13 into commercial sex work, young people are also entering commercial sex work unaware of the psychosocial and physical consequences of their decision.

SEC is becoming particularly acute in developing countries of the region that are undergoing rapid social and economic change. Socio-economic and cultural factors, such as lack of education, family breakdown, lack of economic opportunity, traditional beliefs and practices, and poverty, make young people particularly susceptible to sexual exploitation. Children and youth in the region are also at risk of sexual abuse, usually by someone whom they know and trust. Young victims of sexual abuse and sexual exploitation face high risk of contracting sexually transmitted infections, including HIV/AIDS, as well as developing mental and behavioural problems.

Despite the increasing severity of the problem, there exists a wide gap between the need for psychosocial and medical services for children and youth who are victims of sexual abuse and sexual exploitation, and the availability of such services in the Asia-Pacific region.

Between 1998 and 2003, ESCAP implemented a regional capacity development programme to combat sexual abuse and sexual exploitation of children and youth. The programme covered 12 countries in two subregions (South Asia and the Greater Mekong Subregion). The programme has been widely acknowledged for its contribution to awareness-raising and capacity-building for combating sexual abuse and sexual exploitation in Asia and the Pacific.

As part of this programme, ESCAP undertook in 1998 the compilation of a database of available services and organizations working to combat SEC in Asia. This Directory of Organizations is an expanded and updated version of the database. While it is by no means exhaustive, the Directory aims to assist psychosocial and medical service providers in identifying existing services in the field and helping victims to access services. It is also meant to facilitate the sharing of knowledge and resources within the region, as part of the overall fight against sexual exploitation and sexual abuse of children and youth.

The ESCAP secretariat acknowledges with gratitude the generous financial support of the Government of Japan in providing the funds for this publication, under the ESCAP project entitled "Elimination of sexual abuse and sexual exploitation of children and youth (phase V)".

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Formed in 1979 by a group of prominent lawyers in Bangladesh, Bangladesh National Women Lawyers Association (BNWLA) works towards the promotion of human rights.

The Association strives to provide integrated legal aid and rehabilitation services to vulnerable and disadvantaged women and children in Bangladesh. It is dedicated to promoting the legal status of disadvantaged women and children, and working to integrate them into mainstream economic and social activities.

BNWLA has pioneered new methods of addressing issues such as violence against women and children, trafficking of women and children, and reformulation of laws relating to rights of women and children in Bangladesh. BNWLA has also developed a network with women workers in both the formal and informal sectors. Aiming to ensure their economic empowerment, BNWLA helps women workers to exercise their basic rights under existing laws.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Founded in 1997, the Cambodian Women's Crisis Center (CWCC) is a local, non-governmental organization based in Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

CWCC's mission is to eliminate all forms of violence against women while providing intervention services to victims and their children. Intervention services are designed to help women help themselves and include a confidential shelter, individual counseling, support groups, medical assistance, legal consultations, and a reintegration programme. Through monitoring and investigation, CWCC secures information on incidents of violence against women and undertakes legal action. CWCC works to raise awareness of, and educate communities about, violence against women. Efforts have included a nationwide media campaign and community education sessions.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: The objectives of the Center for the Prevention and Treatment of Child Sexual Abuse (CPTCSA) are:

- To increase awareness about child sexual abuse and its victims, the causes and effects of child sexual abuse, and strategies for prevention within the Philippines;
- To create an understanding that child abuse is not only a problem for the victim but also for the entire community and thus is a national concern;
- To provide direct prevention and mental health services to children and/or victims and their families, to avoid or minimize long-term trauma and the effects of sexual abuse.

Programme methods and approaches include providing students and parents within already established school and social service systems with a "curriculum" on safety issues, as well as tools for empowerment in the face of sexual abuse.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Child and Family Service Philippines, Inc. (CFSPI) is a non-profit, non-governmental organization that was established in 1987 with the financial support of the Alger Foundation.

CFSPI was started to bridge the gap in services for responding to the basic needs of street children. As interest from other organizations grew, CFSPI shifted its focus to initiating advocacy work for the welfare of children who were abused and neglected. One of the programmes established was the Consuelo Alger Home, a temporary home for abused children to ensure their immediate safety and well-being.

CFSPI has a variety of service and support programmes that are complemented by an advocacy and research department. All services focus on providing comprehensive interventions to improve the condition of children and families in especially difficult circumstances and to strive to change these circumstances.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Community Participation and Development (CPD) is a local non-profit, non-political, non-governmental organization. It was established in 1993 by a group of local social workers who wanted to improve the social and economic conditions of disadvantaged women and children in different areas of Bangladesh.

CPD works in Zahuri Mahalla, including Zeneva and Market Camps, Aziz Mohalla, Bizli Mohalla, Tikka Para and Shekertak (in the Mohammadpur area of Dhaka).

CPD's mission is to provide technical and financial assistance to poor and disadvantaged women and children in order to improve their social and economic conditions and quality of life.

Its objectives are:

- To provide child care services to disadvantaged working women, to help them participate in economically productive activities;
- To strengthen the position in society of disadvantaged women and men through awareness-raising on social issues, health and family planning;
- To raise awareness of, and change attitudes towards, child rights issues;
- To enhance the capabilities of women, children and adolescent girls through education;
- To create self-employment and income-generating opportunities for disadvantaged women and men by providing credit facilities and skills training.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Friends is a non-religious association that responds to the needs of street children, their families and their community.

The association's objectives are:

- To meet the immediate essential needs of street children in accordance with the Convention on the Rights of the Child;
- To reintegrate children into their families, society, the public school system and their culture;
- To build the capacity of its staff so that Cambodian nationals are able to run the programme, independent of foreign assistance, in the near future.

Friends is organized into 12 interlinked programmes for street children, with centres in Phnom Penh, Kampong Speu and Kampong Cham provinces and outreach activities in all of Cambodia's provinces.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: KKSP Child Rights Information and Education Center runs three programmes:

1. The Taman Kebajikan Alternative School encourages and trains children, who have dropped out of school, to become young organizers in their community. Using a child-centred education model, the School:
   - Provides education to children who drop out of school for economic reasons;
   - Produces independent graduates who can become agents of change in their communities;
   - Develops alternative education systems.
2. The Protection for Girl Street Children programme, which operates on the belief that female street children are more susceptible than boys to violence, sexual abuse and trafficking, provides both physical and non-physical protection, including shelter and health and legal consultation. Vocational training is also provided.
3. The Computer Information Technology programme, run in collaboration with UNESCO, aims to provide street children with knowledge on the operation of computers, including an introduction to the Internet, and web site design.

Description: Established in 1980, PIACT Bangladesh is a non-profit, non-governmental organization devoted to the welfare of the people of Bangladesh, particularly the disadvantaged group of women and children. During its initial years, it worked as a specialized research organization and also provided support to the Government and non-governmental organizations in developing information education and communication (IEC) and training support materials. Over the years, PIACT expanded its activities, mainly focusing on education, mother and child health, nutrition, women's development, skill-development training, programme-oriented operations research and prevention of sexually transmitted infections, including HIV/AIDS.

It currently runs a programme for the development of brothel-based and floating sex workers and their children. The programme includes providing education and skills-development training to expand the scope for alternate livelihoods, and managing a drop-in-centre and crèche/boarding facilities for sex workers' children.

Description: Plan is an international humanitarian, child-focused development organization without religious, political or governmental affiliation. It strives to achieve lasting improvements in the quality of life of deprived children, towards its vision of a world in which all children realize their full potential in society.

Plan's programme in Viet Nam is to enable children, their families, and their communities to meet children's basic needs and to increase children's ability to participate in and benefit from their society. Empowerment and mutual respect are important concepts for Plan in providing an integrated community development programme.

Description: Many girls between the ages of 12-16 years are institutionalized by court order for three years. In order to ensure the safety, rehabilitation, education and health of these institutionalized girls, they are trained at the girls' school for vocations such as dressmaking, hairdressing and bridal dressing. An environment is created where the girls are encouraged to develop individual talents and aspirations. Attention is paid to improving their ability to interact socially. At the end of the three-year period, they are presented with certificates for achievements and presented with tools such as machines that will assist them in further developing their vocational interests.

Description: Protecting Environment and Children Everywhere (PEACE) is a campaign launched in 1989 against the commercial sexual exploitation and abuse of children by both local and foreign paedophiles. It is affiliated with ECPAT International.

Its objectives are:

- To create awareness among communities regarding the problem of commercial sexual exploitation of children, child sexual abuse (incest), and child labour in Sri Lanka;
- To influence, through continuous lobbying, national policy related to the protection of children in extremely difficult circumstances;
- To prevent children from being lured or forced into sex work and hazardous employment;
- To educate the community, especially adolescents and youth, on the rights of children, reproductive health, and the dangers of sexually transmitted infections and HIV/AIDS;
- To train mothers and youth, living in areas where there is high risk of child prostitution, in self employment skills;
- To motivate concerned groups to initiate programmes to protect children from sexual exploitation and abuse, and to rehabilitate child victims of sexual exploitation and abuse.

Description: The Center for Societal Development Studies (CSDS) is part of Atma Jaya Catholic University, Jakarta. It works to assist the Government of Indonesia through action-oriented research and training on developmental issues especially targeted at the underprivileged population in urban settings. Since its inception, the Center has been witness of change and transformation of urban communities in the country. Numerous research and training projects in the areas of community health services, maternal and infant health, labour (especially women and children), land use and urban planning, gender awareness, teaching and learning processes in higher education, educational economics and child rights have been undertaken as parts of institutional, communal, national or regional agendas of action.

CSDS believes in partnership. Most of the services take place according to a tripartite model involving direct or indirect government support.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Radda Barnen (RB), founded in 1919, works for the implementation of the rights of the child, in Sweden and in Asia, Africa, South and Central America and Eastern Europe. Child-focused studies, demonstration projects and advocacy are RB's main instruments. The priority is to make the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) a reality and, in particular, to protect children who are victims of either war or extremely dificult circumstances. RB does not implement programmes but supports non-governmental and governmental partner organizations in Viet Nam to internalize and implement the CRC.

RB's aim is to prevent exploitation, neglect and abuse of vulnerable children. A parallel aim is to support initiatives to protect children in especially vulnerable situations. A priority is to involve children's participation and to include a girls/boys gender perspective. Target groups are children with disabilities, children in conflict with the law, abused children and children exploited through prostitution or harmful labour. Other target groups include children's families and adult workers that come in contact with mass media. Capacity building is included in every project. Radda Barnen also works regionally by promoting child rights in South-East Asia together with its Save the Children partner organizations.

Description: Reproductive and Child Health Alliance (RACHA) was established by the US Agency for International Development (USAID) to assist in the implementation of USAID's Maternal and Child Health (MCH) programme. Currently implemented and managed by the collaborative partnership of Access to Voluntary and Safe Contraception International, the partnership for Child Health Care/Basic Support for Institutionalizing Child Survival (BASICS) Project, and the Family Planning Service Expansion and Technical Support Project, RACHA aims to improve the care and support services standard for maternal and child health through local and national institutions.

Under the auspices of USAID, RACHA began working in Cambodia in October 1996, focusing on institutional capacity-building of maternal and child health in both the governmental and non-governmental sectors, thorugh direct collaboration with the National MCH programme of the Ministry of Health and with local non-governmental service delivery and support organizations. The primary focus is on three result areas: policy; human resource development; and commodities.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Saigon Children's Charity (SCC) was registered in the UK in 1992 and is committed to ensuring that the poorest Vietnamese children receive an education. SCC strongly believes that education enhances the quality of life by improving employment prospects and by helping raise family standards in all aspects, including nutrition and health.

SCC's aim is to ensure that the poor children who are currently excluded from schooling (e.g., due to poverty, lack of educational provision, remoteness from a school and overcrowding) are given the opportunity to get an education. SCC seeks to support the existing educational infrastructure through the pho cap system of education and non-fee paying classes, known as lop hoc tinh thuong. SCC's support extends beyond the physical needs, to improving the quality of teaching through training and small-scale income generation, in order to help support the child and his/her family.

Description: Sarvodaya Movement is an organization with a nationwide network. It has independent affiliated bodies dealing with various activities which empower people at the grass-roots level. The Sarvodaya Suwasetha Society has 8 children's homes for destitute and abused children who are referred by the Probation and Child Care Department. The Sarvodaya Legal Services Division conducts awareness programmes around child rights and provides legal aid to victims of abuse and exploitation. Both organizations have established a centre called 'Protect our Children' under the Project for Prevention of Child Abuse, a 24-hour hotline to receive complaints. More then 95 complaints were recorded in 1998.

Description: Save the Children – Australia (SCA) is a member of the International Save the Children Alliance. SCA is a secular, non-profit, non-political organization based in Australia. SCA believes in the goals of the founder, Eglantyne Jebb, which is to alleviate the suffering of children born into poverty, conflict and deprivation. Children's needs are met not just during crises but also by placing in their hand the means of saving themselves. SCA projects in Cambodia are presently aimed towards capacity building of government sectors and local non-governmental organizations (NGOs).

SCA became involved in Cambodia in 1979, focusing on Government institutional capacity building. Some past projects also included the revival of traditional dance and music. In the early 1990s assistance to Primary Teacher Education began, funded by UNICEF. SCA is presently a partner in the Consortium, funded by US Agency for International Development (USAID), implementing the Cambodian Assistance to Primary Education (CAPE) project in Kandal Province. In 1995, SCA began to assist the development of a local NGO, Mith Samlanh/Friends, which works with street children and their families.

Description: Save the Children (SCA) is dedicated to upholding the Declaration on the Rights of the Child which was drawn up by Save the Children's founder, Eglantyne Jebb, in 1919. These rights, also reflected in the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, embody four principles: survival, protection, development and participation. SCA aims to ensure that children, regardless of race, country of origin or religious belief, have the means for survival, receive adequate nutrition, primary health care and basic education.

SCA supports these principles through:

- Implementation of development assistance programmes overseas and in Australia;
- Advocacy and education concerning issues which relate to the rights of children.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Save the Children Fund UK (SCF UK) is a secular, non-profit, non-political organization based in the United Kingdom (UK). As one of the largest British international non-governmental organizations (NGOs) concerned with the rights and the welfare of children, SCF (UK) has programmes in over 50 countries around the world, including the UK. SCF (UK) works to achieve lasting benefits for children within the communities in which they live, by endeavouring to make a reality of children's rights.

SCF (UK) started work in Cambodia in 1991 through a joint project with Redd Barna, whose aim was to improve national training for nurses and midwives in Phnom Penh. As well as working with the Maternal and Child Health Centre of the Ministry of Health, SCF (UK) also collaborates with the Ministry of Social Affairs, Labour and Veterans Affairs (MSALVA) to improve policy, planning and management mechanisms within the ministry, as well as links with other organizations.

SCF (UK)'s programme has an active child protection component, supporting local NGOs in their work to prevent child sexual exploitation and to raise awareness of the issue among key target populations. It is a founding member of the NGO Committee on the Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Based on extensive research, SCF (UK) has also developed HIV/AIDS prevention strategies targeting adolescents and young adults, which have been applied at the grassroots level as well as among youth in general.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Save the Children UK (SCF/UK) was founded in 1919 with the aim of helping children around the world to achieve their basic rights to life, protection, material needs, respect, self-fulfilment and the service of others. SCF/UK now works in some 50 countries in the developing world, as well as in the United Kingdom.

The aim of SCF/UK's programme in Viet Nam is to protect and improve the lives of disadvantaged children by addressing four priority issues for children in Viet Nam: poverty, exploitation, discrimination and HIV/AIDS. SCF/UK uses a combination of practical projects at the community level, research, institutional capacity building and policy influencing to work towards achieving its objectives. SCF/UK's activities in Viet Nam concentrate on three programme areas: Ho Chi Minh City (urban poverty, child labour, disability and HIV/AIDS); three north-central provinces (rural poverty and child labour); and Quang Minh (ethnic minority education and environment). SCF/UK carries out research to learn more about the situation of children in Viet Nam and to inform its programme and advocacy work. The direct involvement of children and young people in SCF/UK's project work is becoming increasingly important.

Description: Save the Children Japan (SCJ) was established in 1986 as the 22nd member of the International Save the Children Alliance (ISCA), and works to contribute to the realization of the rights of children. SCJ supports self-help efforts by local communities and the people in several Asian countries, with emphasis on capacity building of family members. SCJ collaborates with the ISCA, as well as with local and international non-governmental organizations.

SCJ started its activities in Viet Nam in 1995, with the aim to enhance the livelihood of disadvantaged children and women in rural areas, by supporting community-based projects with an emphasis on nutrition and food security. For example, SCJ initiated a household food security programme for ethnic minority women in Lang Chanh, a mountainous district of Thanh Hoa, through a village-level extension network.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Save the Children USA's (SC/US) development model is founded on the belief that, in order for development gains to be sustainable, strategies and solutions to community problems must be identified within the community by the community members themselves. Translating this process into action enables the SC/US's Poverty Alleviation and Nutrition Programme (PANP) to focus on community resources, and how those resources can be mobilized to address community needs.

SC/US has been working in Viet Nam to create a PANP model for a national commune-level development programme. The overall programme objective is to measurably and sustainably enhance the standard of living of children and their families, as well as their nutritional status. Programme emphasis is placed on training and transfer of skills, thereby enabling people of the communes to sustain the benefits realized during the life of the programme, after the programme has been phased over to the commune. The current programme includes interventions in the following sectors: health, education, economic development and agriculture. The target groups are children, women and the poorest of the poor.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Social and Economic Enhancement Programme (SEEP) is a child-focused organization working for its vision that all the children in Bangladesh can realize their full potential. Its mission is to ensure the protection of the rights of the children. SEEP's strategy is to ensure that all children, particularly those who are disadvantaged and vulnerable, are protected and given the opportunity to develop.

In view of the above, the organization has the following objectives:

- To provide early-childhood, basic and technical education to disadvantaged children, especially child labourers and street children;
- To provide health care services to mothers and children of the disadvantaged community;
- To socially and economically empower the parents of poverty-stricken children, especially child labourers;
- To raise awareness among Bangladeshi people on the rights of the child.

SEEP has been implementing programmes such as: drop-in centre, day-care centre, pre-school, non-formal education programme, health programme, counselling and referral service, socio-economic empowerment of the parents where applicable, community mobilization and advocacy against child labour in line with the Action Plan against Child Labour developed by the Ministry of Labour and Employment Exchange.

Description: Society for Social Service (SSS) is a national, voluntary, non-governmental development organization of Bangladesh. It was established in 1986 with a view to promote the socio-economic upliftment of rural and urban disadvantaged people and deprived children.

The main objective of SSS is to improve the socio-economic status of disadvantaged, deprived and poor people, with a special focus on women and children. This is done through the creation of a network of self-managing and self-sustaining groups, whose members are trained to make them capable of improving their own situation.

SSS has been working in the field of poverty alleviation through:

- Micro-credit support;
- Preventive and curative health care services;
- Education and child development, including mobile education and health care facilities for working and street children, and a rescue and rehabilitation centre for children of sex workers;
- Development programme for ethnic minorities;
- Development programmes in agriculture, social forestry, aqua-culture, safe drinking water and sanitation, poultry and livestock, environment, rural housing and disaster management.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Society for the Protection of the Rights of the Child (SPARC) is an independent non-profit organization seeking to ensure on-going, systematic and concerted national and regional action to promote and protect the rights of the child, not only in Pakistan, but in the whole of South Asia, using the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child as a yardstick. SPARC believes that action is required at the macro-level if widespread change is to be brought about. To achieve these objectives, SPARC uses lobbying and awareness-raising as tools to pressure the federal and provincial governments to introduce legal and policy reforms, and undertake other actions that protect and promote child rights. SPARC concentrates on research and publications and their wide dissemination so that the issue of child rights continues to be a part of any debate on national and local policy.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Stiftung Kinderdorf Pestalozzi (SKIP) is a non-governmental international aid organization based in Switzerland, providing assistance to needy children, irrespective of their gender, race or creed, through its outreach programmes in less developed countries. While SKIP provides emergency aid when necessary, the main thrust of its work consists of supporting long-term development efforts favouring destitute minors from marginalized social groups. Programmes are participatory in their approach, actively engaging beneficiaries and requiring their appropriate contribution to achieve stipulated goals.

In Cambodia, SKIP joined the efforts of UNICEF in 1985 to improve the living conditions in provincial orphanages throughout the country. From the beginning, priority has been given to:

- Rebuilding infrastructure destroyed by the war, e.g., buildings and sanitary installations;
- Establishing skill training facilities.

Skip has rebuilt five children's centres in Pursat with the intention that four should become skill centres for children who have at least a primary education and no opportunities to continue in school. The fifth has been handed over to the Ministry of Social Action.

In 1992/93, SKIP, in cooperation with the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees and the Ministry of Labour and Social Action, participated in the repatriation of unaccompanied minors. These young people are now involved in learning trades which will enable them to earn a living and help them to achieve greater independence.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Terre des Hommes (TDH) was founded in Lausanne, Switzerland, in 1960, to provide direct aid to children in urgent need of help. It is an independent foundation, free of any religious, ethnic, or political bias. Since most difficulties faced by children arise directly from the problems to be found in their homes or communities, or in society in general, TDH focuses not only on children, but also increasingly on their families and communities, by helping them to take control of their own lives and to provide better opportunities to their children. This is also why TDH defends and promotes the rights of the child in these countries, both rich and poor, where those rights are abused. TDH always tries to identify and support committed local groups or organizations rather than to manage projects itself. In such cases, it works closely with its local partners, providing training, where necessary, and grass-roots support.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: Established in 1972, UCEP works in the non-formal education sector. It provides general education to urban working distressed children through 30 schools in four divisions. After completing general school education, these children go for vocational education in various trades, including electrical, garments, carpentry and printing. An employment and field services department is working to get graduates into the job market by maintaining constant liaison with different employers. UCEP is adopting an integrated approach for the upliftment of its target group.

Description: The Cambodian Government and the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) have been partners in development since 1952. This cooperation was interrupted during 1975-1978, but was resumed when UNICEF became the lead agency for UN support in 1979-1981. From 1989, the emphasis shifted from primarily emergency-oriented activities to more stable processes and structures for development and protection of children and women. The convergence of support from various sources has also been accorded significant attention.

TYPE OF ORGANIZATION

☐ Government ☑ NGO ☐ Academic ☐ Hospital

Description: The Zamboanga Peninsula Women's Solidarity Foundation, Inc., aims to protect the rights of women through advocacy and education so as to heighten awareness respecting gender issues in its area of operation. The belief is that women's rights can be enhanced only if women are fully aware of these rights and their implications, which can be taught through basic education. At the same time, they should be able to acquire vocational skills that would enhance their production capacity, thereby boosting income. In addition to advocacy and education, the organization facilitates the pursuit of cases involving rape victims, battered wives and abused children through legal and para-legal assistance. It also provides a shelter home to these victims, which include abandoned children, to ensure their safety and security from further abuses.
