Introduction

The catalogue of the Population Reference Centre consists of publications available in its collection and database. They are monographs, monograph series, reports, research papers, censuses, surveys, annuals, periodicals and some reference publications relating to the field of population studies.

The catalogue contains seven categories which are as follow: (1) monograph, (2) monograph series, (3) census, (4) survey, (5) annual, (6) periodical and (7) UN publication.

In order to enable users to find publication easily, each category is arranged alphabetically by title, except for UN publications ST/ESA/SER. A/ and ST/ESA/SER. R/ which are arranged by running number of the series.

Each title appears with the following information:

1. Title of publication, category
2. First name, last name of the author
3. Corporate body or publisher
4. Language
5. Location and year of publication
6. Keywords

If it is a periodical, frequency and holding terms are added.

The collection includes publications under the following topics: demography, family planning, population, population distribution, household/family, child care, birth control, contraception, sexuality, health, reproductive health, mortality, fertility, maternity, adolescence, youth, population and housing census, health survey, demographic survey, HIV/AIDS, ageing, STD, STI, women, marriage, pregnancy, family life, employment, economy, statistics, etc.

Users can access information from the Population Reference Centre database as described below

Information Retrieval

It is very simple to access or retrieve information from the database. It can be accessed by using a keyword search from publication, title, author, corporate body and date of publication.

There are two types of search or access or retrieval. They are (1) simple search, (2) expert search.

1. Simple search

How to do simple search

- First, enter the website address "http://prc/libm/prcs.shtml" It will then display simple search form with a self explanatory note on to search (see appendix A.).
- Search can be done by entering any search terms or phrases to search for required information.
- All search terms and phrases are truncated automatically.

Example: If users require to search for information concerning contraceptive, users have to key-in the term "contraceptive" in input box, then click "Submit" command button. The system will display records concerning "contraceptive"

- These may be 57 records from the search, but only 20 records (1-20) can be display at one time (see appendix B.).
- In order to see additional records, click "Next" command button at the upper-right corner. It will again display record 21-40.
- Click "Next" for record 41-57.
- Click "Previous" command button to see back records (see appendix C.).
- Click check boxes☐ in front of records that users need to display, then click "Display selection" for search result (see appendix D. and E.).
- Click "Clear selection" if users no longer need to display the checked records.
- Click "Display 1-20" if users need to display 20 records at the same time (see appendix B.)

- Click "Simple search" at the bottom of the screen to search new terms.
- To link to expert search, just click "Expert search" at the bottom of the screen.

2. Expert search

How to do expert search

- Key "http://prc/libm/prcc.shtml" at the above address box, then press "Enter" button for expert search form (see appendix F.).

Truncation

- All search terms or phrases (complete or incomplete) should be truncated with a $ sign. However, do not truncate too soon as users might get unnecessary records.

Example: If users want to search for information concerning child and children, just truncate the term "child" with a $ sign.

- Key the term "child$" in input box, then click "Submit" command button. It will display any records with the word "child" (see appendix G.).

Boolean operations

- Word such as and, or, and not, and ( ) round bracket sign can be used for searching more than one term. Any terms with "or" must be enclosed in a round bracket.

Example: Key-in (Population$ or Labou$) and Migra$ for searching for Migration of Population / Labour (see appendix H.).

Field search

Search from title and series

- Key required terms as follow: child$/(245), then press "Submit" command button. The display records are those extracted from titles starting with the word "child" (see appendix I.).

Search from author
